Those institutions not requiring test scores require placement testing for any student not submitting SAT/ACT scores exempting them from learning support.

Students who test below the System minimum scores on the Compass exam in one or more areas of learning support (reading, English, math) are not eligible for admission.

Students required to take the Compass placement exam and earning scores placing them in all three areas of learning support (reading, English, math) are not eligible for admission to any USG institution.

Visit the USG Learning Support page to learn more about the learning support requirements and to view the System minimum cut scores - http://www.usg.edu/student_affairs/students/admissions_enrollment/ls_requirements.

Students should contact the Admissions Office for additional information specific to the institution.
